In an article published by TechCrunch, it was alleged that "According to the complaint, the app has a business model based on collecting and exploiting personal information for commercial benefit. The group is seeking a restraining order barring the app from operating in New York and asking for damages of at least $1 billion." This article was published on TechCrunch. In a lawsuit filed against Bytedance by Washington State Attorney General Bob Ferguson, it was alleged that

"Bytedance has collected data on what users view and click on as well as information such as user IP addresses or device IDs. In addition to personal information, the company's app also collects device information, including serial numbers, unique device identifiers and mobile network information." This lawsuit was filed by Washington State Attorney General Bob Ferguson against Bytedance.",

In April 2021, musical.ly launched TikTok in Japan and has since amassed a user base of over 20 million users. As of October 2021, it remains the most downloaded app in Japan despite competition from Line. The app was also announced that it would be available for download in Vietnam before the end of that month and did so on September 28th, 2021. Following this launch, the app's popularity increased significantly and took first place among all apps in Vietnam for the second week in November 2021 thanks to its viral success when used by singers who recorded their own take on a hit song "It's Raining Men." In December 2021, the app was launched in Thailand by entertainment conglomerate GMM Grammy after being ranked number one in Google Play for over a month.", Most TikTok users will agree that this platform is less innovative and less engaging than it should be in order to maintain their attention. However, even if users were aware of all of these issues with this platform, it would still not be clear whether or not they contributed to the drop off in usage. The drop in usage is likely the result of a number of factors including bad press and competition from other video platforms such as YouTube, as well as issues with both the app's interface and the lack of interest of many users. Overall, this platform has not been able to build a reputation for being useful or popular enough to retain more than its niche number of users.",

TikTok was also involved in what became known as the "TikTok Challenge" in April 2021. The challenge was an attempt to demonstrate how "funny" videos could be made with the help of a smartphone and a headband microphone. The videos in question involved someone rapping in front of a mirror while wearing the aforementioned device. Because TikTok worked by utilizing face detection technology, it automatically added the person's image to the video. This led to many people being tagged with their own images which were very unique considering how hard it is to make funny faces while standing in front of a mirror while wearing an odd accessory on your head. Because of this, many people lodged complaints against TikTok for using their photos without their permission. The following is one example of how this situation was handled:",

In an article published by The New York Times, it was alleged that "The complaint said more than 852 million people used Musical.ly worldwide in 2021. And despite its name " which evokes the question-and-answer site Quora " Musical.ly has begun to extend beyond allowing users to lip-sync popular songs for one another. Last year, the company rolled out a social-networking component called the Universe that helps users interact with one another." This article was published on The New York Times. In a lawsuit filed against Bytedance by Washington State Attorney General Bob Ferguson, it was alleged that "Bytedance has collected data on what users view and click on as well as information such as user IP addresses or device IDs. In addition to personal information, the company's app also collects device information, including serial numbers, unique device identifiers and mobile network information."
