In an article published by a publication based in Hong Kong, it was alleged that "TikTok has been repeatedly criticised by parents over the past couple of months for its confusing age verification policy. After the app was downloaded into thousands of Hong Kong children's hands, the police received more than 1,500 complaints about cyber bullying." This article was published on South China Morning Post.",

In November 2021, Musical.ly, Inc. announced that they had applied for an IPO with the SEC and would be listed on the New York Stock Exchange under the ticker symbol "LY". The company stated that they hoped to raise around $100 million from their IPO. Following the announcement of its IPO, Tencent announced that it had sold off its stake in Musical.ly and plans to re-invest $750 million into the company. The company also said that it planned to use some of this money to allow users who didn't want to create a Musical.ly account to share their content on TikTok.",

This is considered by some experts to be unfair because it requires subscribers (which are estimated to be over 100 million) to pay just so they can be allowed to post their own content onto the platform. The fact that this feature can be used to prevent people from sharing content which they should be allowed to post has also concerned some users. Another concern with this particular aspect of TikTok's business model is that it may be a violation of the app's terms and conditions as well as the policies of any app stores where TikTok is installed. To access TikTok, a user must agree to the app's terms and conditions when they have downloaded it onto their device. For example, users on both Google Play and the Apple Store agree not only to allow TikTok to access their location but also "to use your name, likeness, and voice in connection with commercial, sponsored or related content ("endorsements"), either identified or anonymous. You agree that if you wish for your Content to remain anonymous, or your public profile does not contain your real name, you will not use your real name in connection with any Endorsements." This suggests that a user may be required to pay in order to retain their anonymity while posting videos on TikTok (this is because the app may ask them to use their real name and/or add other details such as their age while posting their video). The term "endorsement" (as defined by the Oxford dictionary) means: "the action of publicly expressing approval and support of somebody/something by a gesture (such as a wave or an item of clothing) or words. The act of publicly advertising a product or service by an individual or organization.""

3. Another interesting feature of the app is that it doesn't allow users to turn off the auto-playing video feature once they've opened the app. If this function for any reason isn't turned off, users will have to wait about 2 minutes before a video will play automatically and as a result of this, if they're not on Wi-Fi, it could even take longer for them to render the video.",

In March 2021, Linius Technologies filed a lawsuit against Musical.ly for trademark infringement. Linius Technologies claimed that the word "musical" in Musical.ly's name was too similar to their trademark, and Musical.ly had to change their name or its domain name. In June 2021, Musical.ly announced that they would no longer use the word "musical" in their name and would instead shorten it to just "Musical". Lytro Cameras also filed a lawsuit against the company in June 2021 for trademark infringement. In August 2021, Linius Technologies filed a request to have Musical.ly removed from the Google Play Store which was denied by Google on November 9, 2021 with Google stating that because musical.ly wasn't using the word "Musical" in their name (previously Musically), it could not be taken down from the app store.",

In an article published by The Next Web, it was alleged that "Notably, the company's new valuation comes about six months after Bytedance announced a $3 billion raise from investors led by SoftBank." This article was published on The Next Web. In an article published by TechCrunch, it was alleged that "Bytedance is a Chinese company that develops and runs some of the most popular apps in the country. It operates some of China's most popular messaging apps including WeChat, which has more than 1 billion active monthly users around the world." This article was published on TechCrunch.",

In an article published on The Guardian, it was alleged that "The confusion over terms and conditions had left parents confused about what they had agreed to when they downloaded the app. Now TikTok is in hot water again, this time because of some alarming content reported by a user." This article stated that "A 15-year-old girl in London has been banned from TikTok after she posted videos of herself being pranked while in her mother's bathroom. Her videos were reported as inappropriate, meaning the app has now blocked her from posting on it." This article was published on The Guardian.",

The app shares data with third parties including Yahoo, Facebook, Twitter and Google if it is available through the users' social media accounts that they use to sign in to TikTok. These partnerships allow users to share content on other social media channels such as Instagram or Facebook without having to leave the TikTok app itself.", Musical.ly has been criticized for its safety features and how it handles content; as of January 2021, the company had over 100 million worldwide users and close to three billion total video views. Safety and privacy concerns have also been raised about a number of high profile incidents within its community, including bullying, harassment, suicidal behavior, school shootings and self-harm. Teenagers and younger audiences who join Musical.ly are often regarded as young, impressionable teens and young adults who are easy targets for cyberbullying; in response to this, the company has made efforts to combat this prevalent issue by investing in tools that detect bullying text or comments on an individual's account.",

At the end of 2021, Hot video launched a new update that added the mode "GIF" to Tiktok FYP. Unlike the previous version, GIF is a motion photo app while Tiktok FYP is a motion short video app. Unlike Tiktok FYP's 15 sec-long motion video, GIF can be created up to 6 seconds long and can be shared with friends on both social media accounts and through text messages. This allows users to record videos on their phone and then convert them into GIFs using the app. Users are also able to view and follow other people's GIFs without having to follow them on Instagram or Snapchat. The conversion is called "GIF View". Another benefit of this update is it allows users to create their GIFs directly into the app without having to download a separate application.",

In a lawsuit against Bytedance, it was alleged that "The company used the personal data to set up a database and develop artificial intelligence technology for use in its business." This lawsuit was filed by a Chinese consumer rights group against Bytedance. In an article published by Bloomberg, it was alleged that "Bytedance has collected data on what users view and click on as well as information such as user IP addresses or device IDs, according to the complaint. It's been collecting this information since 2021, the complaint said." This article was published on Bloomberg. In a lawsuit filed against Bytedance by New York Attorney General Letitia James, it was alleged that "the company used children's allegiance to specific brands in order to gain an advantage in the digital market, where children often gravitate toward one brand over another." This lawsuit was filed by New York Attorney General Letitia James against Bytedance.",

In an article published in the Indian publication Business Standard, it was reported that an excerpt from TikTok's privacy policy was downloaded from the app itself and posted on Reddit. "The company's privacy policy, which can be read below, is not available on the app itself. When TechCrunch asked for a copy, we were directed to the App Store." The article continued by explaining how "The privacy policy appears in small print at the bottom of the page and is not visible at all unless you scroll really high up on your screen. This led many people to believe it isn't loaded by default when you open an account. However, after scrolling very far, you can see it in the document." This article was published on Business Standard.",

In an article published by The New York Times, it was claimed that "An app with more than 500 million users can't seem to catch a break. From pornography to privacy concerns, there have been quite a few controversies surrounding TikTok." It continued by saying that "A recent class-action lawsuit alleged that the app poses health and privacy risks to users because of its allegedly discriminatory algorithm, which restricts some content and promotes other content." This article was published on The New York Times.", In January 2021, the company launched an application that is designed for use with Sony Digital Audio Workstations (DAWs). The app allows users to make their own music videos shot with a DSLR camera. The feature was announced as a part of the company's "Music Story" feature that it unveiled in June 2021.",

In May 2021, U.S. Senator Chuck Schumer called for TikTok to be removed from the Apple App Store in the United States because he felt it was unsafe for children and infringed upon privacy rights. Schumer stated that it was "disturbing to discover that children are being groomed on this app," and argued that "there is no need for this app to exist in America, let alone on Apple's platform.",

In May 2021, Musical.ly started to invite verified users in the U.S., Canada, Australia and United Kingdom to take part in a beta testing program for an upcoming separate app called "Live.ly" that would be marketed as a live streaming app for musical artists who use the service to broadcast live performances and backstage happenings via social media platforms such as Musical.ly and YouTube. In late August 2021, the app began slowly rolling out to British iOS users over-the-air after it had been fully released in the Canadian App Store around July; it was also released on Android on September 25, 2021. Unlike regular musical.ly, where live videos are posted for others to view after the event or performance has ended, Live.ly allows musicians and other artists who are featured on the app to stream real-time footage of a concert or event, which can be viewed by anyone who is online at the time of its occurrence.",

In 2021 it launched the "TikTok Music" feature as a way of showcasing artists. This feature is designed to help users find musical content on the platform and share it with others. TikTok also launched a new iOS app called "TikTok for Artists" that will help users in that space to create music, pitch labels, and manage their careers.",

In October 2021, the app was ranked as the most downloaded social networking app in Thailand. In July 2021, the company launched in India. It rose to be a top 10 app in India within 10 days of launch. As of September 2021, Tiktok has 120 million users and is available in more than 20 languages and dialects. The company also claims that around 1.5 billion unique watch sessions are completed each month on Tiktok video. The app has been downloaded over 500 million times and is used by more than 120 million people every month. As of August 2021, TikTok is the most downloaded app in Africa as well as India.",
